

Conservation Officers

Protecting Fish and Wildlife of Idaho

Are you tired of the 8 to 5 office grind? Would you like to work in a place where most people only vacation? Consider a career as a Conservation Officer with Idaho Department of Fish and Game (IDFG) protecting Idaho's fish and wildlife. Patrol Idaho's mountains and high deserts, alongside wild rivers and pristine lakes. Travel through Idaho's beautiful back country on snow machines, horses, jet boats and 4x4s. This could be your office!

Do you like fur, fins, and feathers? We hope so because Conservation Officers go 'hands on' with wildlife. They work closely with biologists to collect biological data for wildlife studies, conduct population estimates, and help trap, tag, and transplant wildlife. They also work with landowners to resolve wildlife damage problems. There's much more to being a Conservation Officer than enforcing wildlife law!

Create a legacy that your children, right down to your great grandchildren, will be proud of! Idaho's Conservation Officers make a difference to Idaho and its citizens through protecting and preserving Idaho's wildlife resources for generations to come!

Want to become an Idaho Conservation Officer?

Idaho's wildlife is the key ingredient to our western outdoor experience and heritage. Idaho Department of Fish and Game is looking for people who want to dedicate their lives to wildlife protection. Conservation Officers receive field enforcement training and complete Idaho Peace Officer Standards and Training Academy.

If you are one of those special people who are interested in becoming an Idaho Conservation Officer, IDFG would like to visit with you! IDFG is looking for people who have good knowledge of fish and wildlife management practices along with completed college coursework in fish and wildlife management. Competitive candidates will have a bachelor's degree in fish and wildlife or a closely related field. Relating to customers (primarily anglers and hunters) is essential, so an interest and practical experience in fishing and hunting, along with good communication skills, is important.

*Make a difference —
consider joining our team!*

For more information about this great opportunity, or to talk with a real Conservation Officer, please call or email:

Blake Phillips

Assistant Chief Enforcement Bureau

Idaho Department of Fish and Game

208.334.3736

blake.phillips@idfg.idaho.gov

or

Greg Wooten

Enforcement Chief

Idaho Department of Fish and Game

208.334.3736

greg.wooten@idfg.idaho.gov

For More Information

For more information about Conservation Officers and the Idaho Fish & Game Law Enforcement Program, go to fishandgame.idaho.gov

and click on About Fish and Game. Follow the link to Law Enforcement Program.

Applications for Conservation Officer positions are accepted when the job is open on recruitment. To check on current open jobs, go to fishandgame.idaho.gov and click on About Fish and Game. Follow the link to Employment.

Idaho Fish and Game adheres to all applicable state and federal laws and regulations related to discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, gender, disability or veteran's status. If you feel you have been discriminated against in any program, activity, or facility of Idaho Fish and Game, or if you desire further information, please write to:

*Idaho Department of Fish and Game
P.O. Box 25, Boise, ID 83707
OR*

*U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service
Division of Federal Assistance
Mailstop: MBSP-4020*

*4401 N. Fairfax Drive, Arlington, VA 22203
Telephone: (703) 358-2156.*

This publication will be made available in alternative formats upon request. Please contact the Department of Fish and Game for assistance. kky 500/2014/21805

CONSERVATION OFFICER

Get the right kind of Wild Life...

Be a Conservation Officer for Idaho Fish and Game